Description
During the communication plan decision making process, a deligation between policy statement and action statement was decided. Whereby policy statements would need the support of the delegates of the PPI Members. It is clear that the voting is the final step in a position or policy development. The debate and contributions to a motion/initiative needs be carried prior to the voting period. Redmine has been configured so that it can keep track of votes by delegates. In order to implement the provision XI.4 of PPI Statute (http://int.piratenpartei.de/Statutes#XI_Voting) and support the above decision of the board to call upon the constituents of the PPI, a set of permanent delegates has to be appointed by each member, in order to have an effective voting system. The board decides to implement a transitional voting system in order to effectively support XI.3 of PPI Statute
