Description
We received an e-mail about the @ppinternational on identi.ca. We should start managing the channel. Marcel also found http://identi.ca/group/pirateparty . Marcel: Marcel thinks that these channels should be managed in a similar fashion as facebook etc. Lola: Doesn't know identi.ca and doesn't want to manage it. Pat: There is a way to integrate all the social services (FB and others) into one information stream. Doesn't know how to do that. Lola: Is willing to manage identi.ca if Marcel shows her how to do so. Asks who registered the @ppinternational account. Marcel has little idea who and why registered the channel. Pat: Found http://qwibber.com service that can be used to integrate input of info into all the social services. Lola: asks for a similar service for windows... Pat will look into that. Agreed. Upd: check ping.fm possible solutions to consider:

Lola tries to use Rockmelt browser (<http://www.rockmelt.com/>) or someone can try to program an internally accessible webinterface on PPI servers, based on qwibber and cwibber (CLI for qwibber).

Report by Pat: One possibility would be to sign up for a ping.fm account if we want to go for a solution where we can dispatch a message to multiple social media channels at once.

Marcel: If I understand correctly what ping.fm is, it's a service where you can get an account free of charge that allows you to do what you described. It seems reasonable to me. I guess we should propose this to the CAO because she's responsible for the social networks.

Pat: Partially, Lola is responsible only for Facebook.

Marcel: But we want to consolidate it and in that case we want the CAO to do it all.

Marcel: It seems to be again a matter of sending a proposal by e-mail to the CAO and the board. So, will you do it, Patrick?

Pat: Redmine it please and I will do it until the next board meeting.
